A TRAIN TELESCOPED.

ANOTHER MICHIGAN HORROR THIS TIME AT JACKSON.

An Express Train Runs into a Switch Engine and Crushes a Party of Emigrants.

DETROIT, October 10.-The Pacific express which left here on the Michigan Central :ailroad forty minutes late. collided with the switch engine on the main track at Jackson at 1 o'clock this morning, telescoping the baggage and express cars and piling eleven coaches on top of each other. The first coach was filled with emigrants, most of whom were killed or seriously injured. Many occupants of the other caches also were killed or injured. There is supposed to be twenty-five killed and thirty wounded, the majority being emigrants. The physicians and others are doing everything possible to alleviate the sufferings of the wounded.

The engineer and firem an of the express train were literally torn to pieces, but the engineer and fireman of the switch engine escaped injury by jumping from the engine. As near as can be ascertained the accident was caused by the switchman having charge of the making up of the freight trains at Jackson Junction occupying the main rack with the switch engine and caboose, he understanding that the express train was considerably behind time. The express train, however, had made up nearly all lost time.

There are no Southern people among the names of the killed and injured.

Great enthusiasm prevailed, and the demonstration passed off without accident of any kind. The volunteer soldiers of Charleston, S. C., Georgia and Florida were represented by over twenty companies of infantry, cavalry and artillery. The military pageant surpassed in brilliancy and number any similar affair in this city. The military alone, including the Savannah soldiery, extended over a quarter of a mile. The procession was composed of civic societies, the Jasper Monumental Association, centennial com-mittee, headed by the Thirteenth United States infantry band and a company of Federal troops from the barracks at Atlanta.

The entire city was brilliantly and handsomely illuminated and decorated. The shipping in port and public buildings are also decorated. After a parade through the principal streets, which were blocked with people, the procession reached Madison Square, the site of the proposed monument, where a large stand had been erected and elaborately decorated, the American flag being conspicuous. The corner-stone was laid with the usual ceremonies by Captain John McMahon, president of the Jasper Memorial Association. General John B. Gordon, United States Senator from Georgia, was then intro-duced and delivered a grand patriotic oration and frequently greeted with

The military comprised forty companies of infantry, four batteries of artillery and a regiment of cavalry. After the corner-stone ceremonies a grand review of the troops took place at the park extension, by General Gordon and General Lafayette McLaws. The afternoon and evening were devoted to banquets and other festivities.

Her captain, Tucker Sands, reocean. Her captain, Tucker Sands, reports a frightful story from St. Lawrence island, in the Behring sea. Almost the entire population of the southeastern, end of the island had perished of starvation. A party landed from the Collins and were horrified to find two hundred and fifty corpses in one field. The living had carried the dead away from the huts, until at length, overfrom the huts, until at length, over-come themselves, they in turn died in the huts, and so remained. Everywhere the scene was frightful. One little girl the captain speaks of seeing stiff in death with her head resting on her hand, while her body leaned over the remains of a whale. Sands attributes the starvation to rum. Nearly every trader goes to the Arctic ocean loaded with it, and so long as the liquor laste the natives will not go fishing. Then it is too late, and starvation follows. On the northwest end of the island about two hundred natives are still alive. He says the revenue steam cutters are of no use to stop this traffic. The traders see smoke and get out of the way to get rid of their contraband liquors before they can be reached. A sailing vessel of one hundred tons, he says, could end

An invitation from the executive committee to participate in the me-chanics' procession on Wedresday next was received and accepted. Board adjourned.

Glass Ball Shooting.

At the match yesterday afternoon a new double revolving trap was used. There were seven contestants, each shooting at twenty balls. The score Pullen 13, Engelhard 11, Overby 8, Creech 8, Johnson 6, Norfleet 6 and Morson 3.

The new trap and the bad style in which it threw the balls probably account for the poor shooting.

THE LAND OF THE UTES.

THE TITLE WHICH THE TREATY GIVES THEM.

That the United States Selemnly Agreed to Do-General Pleas ton's Views of the Matter.

The land at present occupied by the Utes is but a small portion of the tract originally owned by them. By the treaty made with the confederated bands of the Utes, at the convention held March 2, 1868, they ceded to the United States all that part of their territory outside of their present reservation, except the rectangular piece of ground in the lower part, which was ceded to this Government by the agreement signed on September 13, 1873. Their original property extended as far east as Denver. By this treaty and the agreement the Indians were to be allowed to hunt upon the relinquished lands as long as game lasted, and they were at peace with the whites. The United States also agreed to set apart for the Ute Indians a sum of money, or its equivalent in bonds, which should be sufficient to produce the sum of $25,-000 per annum. This amount was to be disbursed or invested at the discretion of the President, or as he might direct, for the use and benefit of the Ute In-dians forever. ANOTHER ARTICLE OF THE TREATY was as follows: "The United States solemnly agrees that no person, except those herein authorized to do so, and except such officers, agents and employees of the Government as may be authorized to enter upon Indian reservations in the discharge of duties enjoined by law, shall ever be permitted to page over or sattle upon or reside in to pass over, or settle upon, or reside in the territory described in the treaty, except as herein otherwise provided." When, however, rumors were circulatwhen, however, rumors were circulated recently in the neighborhood of the Ute reservation that gold and silver had been discovered within its limits, the miners disregarded the terms of the treaty and made incursions into the prohibited country. This incensed the Utes, who became very bitter against the whites for having broken faith. Out of these troubles grew the recent out. of these troubles grew the recent out-break, which was simply retaliation on the part of the Utes. Ouray, chief of tribe, received by the treaty a salary of $1,000 a year for the term of ten years, or so long as he shall remain head chief of the Utes and at peace with the Uni-

GENERAL PLEASANTON'S VIEWS. General Pleasanton says: There is nly one economical way in which the Indians can be speedily vanquished. Five or six companies of the mountaineers and frontiersmen in Colorado should be raised and armed and equip-ped with just enough blankets and proreach the Ute country. Once there, they could live as the Indians who are they could live as the Indians who are on the warpath live. They could fight the savages in the Indian manner and bring the campaign to a speedy close. There is no necessity for the Government to lug heavy supply trains across the prairies and mountains for the Indians to destroy. There would be no occasion for scores of epauletted officers, with personal baggage, tents, beds, etc., to encumber the train. Every man in the companies of frontiersmen which in the companies of frontiersmen which I would organize would thoroughly understand his business, and half a dozen prominent scouts could officer the command with great ability.

THE COST TO THE GOVERNMENT of paying these men would be much less than the expense of sending out the regular troops, with all the parapher-nalia which the science of modern warfare deems indispensable to successful

Indian fighting.

"The system of managing Indian affairs is undoubtedly the cause of the uprising of the Utes. In the first place, the agent at White River had no business to plow up the land around the agency. The land belongs to the Indians. They alone have the right to say to what uses it shall be put. The agency system is a fraud any way. The agent's business is to deal out supplies to the Indians. He is not charged with Indian fighting. to the Indians. He is not charged with either their salvation or their civiliza-tion. It is not his business to make them plow if they prefer to hunt. De-pend upon it, the agent has plowed up ground to raise corn to sell to the Indi-ans. When the Indians raised a dis-turbance poor Thornburg was given three companies of cavalry,

MOUNTED ON STIFF-LEGGED HORSES, heavy, cumbersome wagons loaded with supplies, and a scout to show him the way to the agency. Indian signs were observed near Milk River. The wagons were left behind, and Thornburg with a detachment of his troops, rode around a canon, where it was believed an ambush had been laid, to get upon the flank of the Indians. They then rushed in between him and his wagons, outflanking him, and attacked in front and behind. Thornburg and thirteen of his men were killed in trying to get back to their wagons.

ernment has FAILED TO KEEP ITS TREATY OBLIGA-TIONS with the Utes, and a war is the result. If the Government would obey the very letter of treaty stipulations, there would be no Indian wars. But the Government does not give the Indian the protection it promised; It insists upon educating the Indian when he does not want to be educated. It insists upon making a farmer of him when he wants to hunt. Agents swindle the tribles out of their supplies, and when the outraged Indians put on the war paint troops who do not understand the first principles of Indian warfare are sent to subdue them. THE self-assumed party whip has cracked once more, but it fails to make any impression on us. We probably understand Democratic doctrine and principles as well as the Durham Recorder.

LET the South abandon its irritating and futile solidity, and enforce the laws and allow actual freedom of the suffrage, and sectionalism will die out for of fuel to feed the flame.-New

Not as long as the Northern press will convert every murder into a political outrag .

THE Washington Republican, not being able to make out a case of "bulldozing" in North Carolina at the election in 1876, has to fall back on the old assertion that the Democratic majority was gained by stuffed ballot-boxes. Well, it is a comfort to get an acknowledgement of credit due the party for being innocent of one serious charge.

An attempt has been made to black mail General McDowell (not the general of that name in the regular army), superintendent of the Chicago customhouse, but he pluckily tells his accusers to go ahead with their seduction charges as he will not allow himself to be "bled" by them-wherein he has taken a sensible course.

THE Atlanta C. nstitution says that "the Beacon Hil! Democrats of Massachusetts, known in the State as the 'Honorable Bilks,' have nominated John Quincy Adams for Governor. John is a son of Charles Francis, and a chip off the old block. When any party in Massachusetts has to put up a man who cannot possibly be elected, it gravitates inevitably to the Adams family. It is an eminently respectable family, but respectability is not a winning card in Massachusetts this year." And we might add, or any other year.

WE remarked some time ago that when Amis stated several State papers had assailed the Supreme Court for its action relative to the School Bill case he didn't know what he was talking about, and we were correct. Each and every paper that complained of the non-action of the Speakers has denied the Review's assertion, the Tarboro Southerner being the last. The Southerner says:

The Supreme Court has at last filed its opinion in the School Bill case. The Raleigh Observer intimates that a man is no lawyer who does not concur in it. So, boys, keep your hands off. We haven't had time to read it yet. When we do, we shan't criticise-ever though we had ability. We certainly shan't be "the fool to rush in, where angels fear to tread." While on this subject we will say that we have never criticised the Supreme Court for a de-

WHILE the standard of the army is so low and troops are needed on the frontier, it is pleasing to note that a company of the Thirteenth Infantry, the regiment to which General Sherman was assigned as colonel on its formation in 1861, can be allowed to withdraw from the barbarous city of Atlanta and attend the Jasper memorial celebration at Savannah. But this is the fancy regiment of the army. When General Sherman was its colonel General Sheridan stood second on the list of captains, and of course it is natural to expect it should be favored. During the war, however, it didn't rank as a "crack" regiment. And it is so profitable for the Government to pay for a "crack" regiment for junketing parposes while Congress is being cursed for furnishing merely a skeleton

WE commend the following from the Charlotte Observer to the editor of the Durham Recorder. Perhaps he will see that the NEWs is not alone in the belief that it is not strictly necessary to be so closely wrapped up in the party cloak as to exclude matters of news or political sentiments varying from the expressed belief of the paper so insert-

Our much respected contemporary, the Goldsboro Messenger, disclaims, as we knew it would, any purpose of reflecting upon the Observer in its comments upon the much discussed "Lochiel" letter, explaining that it found no fault with this paper for having published the communication and did not intend any censure of us therefor. All of which is entirely satisfactory to us; and by the by we are constrained to admire the good sense which the Raleigh NEWS exhibits about this whole matter, in acquitting us of any discourtesy toward it in our publication of the "Lochiel" and "Lowlander" letters. It and the Messenger have indicated, in their recent remarks upon the subject, that they recognize the mission of a newspaper, and realize that in fulfilling this it is sometimes absolutely necessary that it should tread upon the loes of its friends.

THE ATTACKS UPON US.

The Raleigh NEWS has never given forth any uncertain sound. It is now in its Sixteenth Volume, and it has an unbroken record of services rendered to the Democratic party and the people of North Carolina. It has fought many a long day for the Democracy and never an hour against it.

Many attacks, but all coming from one pen, published over various nommes de plume and all written evidently in the interest of one candidate for a high official post, have appeared in several of our contemporaries. More mindful of the necessity of harmony than those who publish the questionable productions from a worse than questionable signed them in the organization of the tions from a worse than questionable hand, the News, as on a memorable oc-casion when the present editor of the Durham Recorder was its chief of staff has refrained from harsh rejoinders, and with dignified composure has awaited the vindication which its, past and present course will receive from a just and discriminating public.

The News has been assailed as "independent." There is not the slightest foundation for the charge; and the gentlemen who assailed us so bitterly for unwaveringly supporting party orto have satisfied Generals Ewing and ganization in the person of Governor Vance last year know know well that no inducement can shake or neutralize the party fealty of the NEWS. There are aspirants for office, perchance, who wish to consider themselves the Demoeratic party and brand as "Independent" everybody and everything which is independent of them. Their pennya-liner, a very Panurge of the Press, is busy sowing a crop of letters against the the NEWS; some of our contemporaries have published them, but we are satisfied they must have been ignorant of the motives and the malice which inspired them.

Some have spoken as if the NEWS had stated that A. W. Tourgee had written for this journal. We have done nothing of the kind. We have simply not given the name of the writer of a communication appearing in our columns upon the demand of a correspondent in another paper who was himself anonymous, and who is doubtless of a more doubtful political record than Mr. Tourgee. Mr. Tourgee has had the same access, and no more, to our columns that he has had to the use of the columns of our contemporary, the Raleigh Observer.

The NEWS has more than once been sued by Republicans, being one of the very few papers in the State upon whom that honor and burden has been cast. Among other suits was one brought by Judge Tourgee. After careful examination it was shown that the particular charge made against him, and for which he brought suit, was untrue. The News had the manliness to allow the publication in its columns of a card from the former proprietors of this journal stating that fact. There was no eulogy of Judge Tourgee, as has been maliciously stated, and if there had been, it was simply "a card" published for others without indorsement by us.

Where the attacks upon us have been made maliciously we can be content till slow but sure moving time shall disclose the authors and the motives. Where they have been made, or countenanced, ignorantly and in belief of the truth of the charges, we are satisfied haste will be made to correct the wrong impression made and the injustice done us.

Everybody knows that an "independent" movement in North Carolina could by no possibility enter into the head of any sensible man. The two political parties are nearly equal. Least of all could it receive countenance from a staunch, war-worn Democratic veteran like the NEWS. If a correspondent thought there was danger to the party from a "Gubernatorial" bolt in 1880, in imitation of the "Senatorial" bolt in 1878, the NEWS saw, and now sees, no reason why it should suppress his communication, or refrain from a semi-jo_ cose editorial allusion to it.

In conclusion, we trust that our contemporaries will agree with us that an united front is necessary to whip the enemy in 1880, and if they will carry the flag of the unterrified Democracy as boldly and as far as the RALEIGH NEWS. they will certainly have a place right down in the middle of the fight. The NEWs has always been there, and the Democracy of the Old North State know that there is the place they can always find it.

The Politician and the Statesman. (Communicated.)

These characters, though often confounded in the popular estimate, are not merely distinct but opposed. The one bears the same relation to the other that pinchbeck bears to gold; that the false brilliant bears to the diamond; that the fungus bears to the healthy growth. The politician makes a trade of the public service, whatever his pro-fessions of public spirit, and is himself the center of all his works and counsels. The statesman, not confining his thoughts to himself or even his party, seeks the public welfare by doing hard and hazardous work, and often thankless service, devising liberal things, content with the consciousness of having sought the good, and deserved well of his country. The mere politician is self-seeking and narrow, timid and servile in the views which he takes of the objects of public policy. The statesman is not only farsighted and sagacious, but liberal and large hearted in all his plans for the interests and honor of those who have confided a trust so important and so sacred to his keeping. The politician considers what is plausible and popular; the statesman what is right and wise. The one discerns with preterna ura sagasty the tendencies of the public mind and trims his sails to float with the tide. The other is willing, if need be, to become the object of popular origin in ore or to save desinstitutions from peril or discredit, The passion of the one is to ple se the people; of the other to serve mem. The eloquence of the two greatest orators of antiquity, Demosthenes and Cicero, was kindled by the patriotic purpose to serve and to save their country. The thunders of Demosthe-nes could not be silenced by the gold of Philip; nor the scarcely less potent voice of Cicero by the arts or the terrors of Catiline. The reign of Elizabeth owes scarcely less of its strength and luster to the counsels of Burleigh and Walsingham than to the naval victories of Raleigh and Drake; to the valor and grace of the all-accomplished Sidney; to the philosophic genius of Bacon and the matchless dramas of the "myriad-minded" Shakspeare.

Milton as a statesman was only inferior to Milton as a poet, and the time will never come when the patriots of his native land will not derive light and impulse from his immortal writings in defense of liberty and truth.

There are no greater names emblazoned on the bright escutcheon of England than those of her great statesmenthe elder and the younger Pitt-father and son-and that of Edmund Burke, practical; the most searching and eloquent of those who have written on the great questions of political philosophy and constitutional government.

It is to us a glory in the past and a pledge for the future that no country, ancient or modern, has been favored with purer or wiser statesmen than our own. The men of the Revolutionary and post-revolutionary period seemed chosen and fitted by Divine Providence for the noble work they had to do. Alexander Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, John Marshall and James Madison, so strikingly inand James Madison, so strikingly in-dependent, original and unlike in in-tellect, in education and in character, ster, Henry Clay and John C. Calhoun, men not less unlike, not less independent in their views, not less patriotic in their aims and purposes, nor less en-lightened and noble.

The Chufa Played Out.

Wilmington Review. Spanish chufa is a failure. At least it is so pronounced by many who have given it what they consider a fair test. Some of the Pender county farmers who have tried it thoroughly for two sea-sons past tell us that they have planted the last of it. They say that it not only does not make good meat but that it draws from the ground where it is planted every particle of life and sustenance, leaving an almost Larren waste where was once fruitful fields. It is true that the hogs take to it kindly but the fat of the meat raised on it is so soft that the pork, as such, is almost unsaleable and the meat, after being cured will continue to drip as long as there is any grease left in it. One instance is related of a farmer who fed with it very extensively last year and who has never yet been able to ge; the lard into anything but a liquid state. He calls it, very properly, hog oil. There will be very little of the Spanish chufa planted n this section next year.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 26, 1878. H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON: H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON:

DEAR SIR:—I have for years been a sufferer from a dreadful CANCER in my side which caused me untold agony, and as I am a widow with a family dependent upon my exertions for a support, my pain of body was only equalled by my pain of mind, at seeing my children want for bread. I was presented by a kind triend in Cincinnati with half a dozen bottles of Vegetime, and although one bottle is still untouched, behold me a well woman, completely restored in body and mind, and able to perform my accustomed duties. Long may you live! and may the history of my wonderful cure lead other like sufferers to purchase your valuable medicine, if it is with the last cent they possess.

Yours gratefully, MRS. FULLER SUTT. MRS. FULLER SUTT.

She has suffered untold agonies and now sits beside me in perfect health with her child upon her k-ec. The prayers of this grateful woman will ever be yours, my noble sir, and we add our testimony to the thousands that favor the greatest of all modern discoveries, 'Vegetine.'
